ABOUT OUR CERTIFICATIONS

Whereas most certifications demand the rote memorization of formulas and processes, we train and assess against a comprehensive body of industry-tested best practices that can be applied and scaled to any sector, industry, or project.

By benchmarking the highest of standards, we have earned global recognition, which immediately and credibly transfers to our certification holders.

Who should certify as a CPP?

A Certified Project Professional (CPP) is a confident project leader and problem solver.

Here are some of the people who make great CPPs.

-  Established project managers ready to affirm their expertise.
-  Technical, trade and other specialists expanding their scope of duties.
-  Accidental project managers without formal training looking to step up.
-  Business analysts or consultants coordinating complex workstreams.
